THIRD SUNDAY OF LENT – MARCH 7, 2010

From
the Pastor

Dear Parishioners,
 We continue our Lenten journey as we renew our efforts to adjust our thinking and behavior. We have all come to appreciate the fact that we cannot make big changes in our way of life our habits and thought processes. We can make some modifications that can make a big difference. It is like going to the moon in a space craft and mission control makes the smallest adjustment in the trajectory and it make a huge difference if the astronauts get to the moon or simply go off into unlimited space. As we think about stewardship as a way of life we ask ourselves what can I do to adjust my thinking about my gifts and talents and be willing to share them with others. Sometimes it can be as simple as forgiving each other and forgiving ourselves for withholding or neglecting self care. This could free us up to taking the next step to move us out of our stuck position or resistance to growth and renewal. Each one us has our own reflecting to do and arrive at self understanding which is between you and God. Then we can say, we are being led by the Spirit this Lent into some self knowledge and change. Keep up the good work with the Catholic Services appeal. If you have given thank you, if there is an obstacle to giving ask for help in prayer. Fr. Martin Shallbetter

PASSOVER MEAL – AT ASCENSION MARCH 29, 2008

The purpose of this meal celebration and the directed conversation at table before the meal is to draw relationships between the Passover and important New Testament truths. It is vital to our understanding of these relationships that we recognize that Jesus was a faithful Jew who observed Judaic laws -- from the circumcision to the feast of the Unleavened Bread, his last Supper.

The Passover meal carried on the learning tradition established by God through Moses when he commanded his people to commemorate his loving kindness towards them in the Exodus. "And when your children ask you, 'What does this ritual mean?', you will tell them 'It is the sacrifice of the Passover in honor of Yahweh who passed over the houses of the sons of Israel in Egypt, and struck Egypt but spared our houses'" (Exodus 12, 27).

The Jews were directed by Moses to gather in family and neighborly clusters to eat and recall together, "And on that day you will explain to your son, 'This is because of what Yahweh did for me when I came out of Egypt.'" (Exodus 13, 8). The lesson of God's freeing the Israelites from slavery was to be taught in the fullness of both intellectual knowledge and the warmth of the heart surrounded by loved ones, family and friends.

For centuries the Jewish families have been following a traditions formula for their family Seder services. The small book which gives the text for this order of service (Seder) is called Haggadah, which means "the telling" as prescribed in Exodus 13, 8. The Jewish Haggadah includes not only the order of the ancient ceremonial events, and the story of the exodus, but a running commentary of prayers, legends and exposition of the rites.

Modern historical research has raised many questions about the Last Supper. The only New Testament reference to any particulars of the Passover meal, aside from the fact that it was to be prepared by the disciples to share it with their teacher, Jesus, is in the mention of hymns being sung as they left the meal, "After psalms had been sung, they left for the Mount of Olives" (Mark 14, 26; Matt. 26, 30). It seems that this reference is to the singing of the Hallel (Psalms 113-118) which closed the family service.

As a gathering, we can strive to achieve the warmth of the Jewish Seder (order) and perhaps then a better understanding of the significance of Judaism to the roots of Christianity. However, the home or communal service would never supplant the official worship in our churches. It is designed to serve only as a preparation in understanding and fellowship for the liturgical church service, to augment the significance of the liturgy in our lives. For as the "Working Document on Jewish-Christian Relations" says, "We call to mind the strong link that binds the Christian liturgy to the Jewish liturgy, which continues to live in our own time. The fundamental conception of liturgy as expression of community life conceived as service of God and mankind is common to Jews and Christians. We grasp the importance for Jewish-Christian relations of an awareness of those common forms of prayer (texts, feasts, rites, etc.) in which the Bible holds an essential place."

Both feasts, Passover for the Jews and Easter for Christians, recognize that all things come from God: light, bread, wine, freedom -- all good things. The Jewish prayers are total dependence of each upon God. The Exodus celebrates the Chosen People's freedom from oppression. Each Jew is to become aware of this personally at each Passover. For the Christian, the Paschal season celebrates man's redemption from the effects of sin by Christ's passion and resurrection, and God's gift of grace, especially through Holy Communion. Both are rooted in history and in Scripture to show God's fulfillment of his plan of salvation.

March 21, 2010 - 6:30p.m. Seder or Passover Meal in Ascension Church Hall

A fee of $10.00 will be charged to cover the cost of the Lamb, symbolic and feasting food. This meal is not a fund raiser. If there is any excess money left over after paying expenses, a donation to an African mission to purchase an animal will be sent in the name of the Ascension Church.

Reply by filling out the form below and mail to Frances Kramer, 18175 Cty. Rd. 34, Norwood. MN. 55368 mail by Friday, March 12, 2010. The committee must know the attendance early to give the meat market enough time for ordering the lamb. If you have questions, call Frances Kramer at (952) 467-2275.

The Seder consists of Symbolic food: haroshet (a paste-like compound of ground apples, nuts, cinnamon and wine to remind us of the days when the Israelites were forced to lay bricks as slaves of the Egyptians), matzo bread, bitter herbs (like horse radish), greens, hard boiled eggs and Feasting food: roasted lamb, boiled potatoes, vegetables, soup, angel food cake, wine(non-alcoholic).
